A similar thing applies when selecting a printer. The CoPilot case is designed in a way that allows all current Canon mobile printers to be integrated.

This unique flexibility, for instance, allows already invested notebooks and printers to continue to be used and only be replaced by new models as the need arises.

Optimally adapted to meet your requirements

Flexibility is the clincher

Your Notebook can be used in a traditional way with power adapter or in battery mode on the desk. Thus all interfaces and features of your Notebook are freely accessible.

The data link between laptop and printer can be realized over a carried USB cable or substantially more comfortably over the Bluetooth interface. Your printer is shifted if needed for printing with a handle into its operating position.

Long operating times are no problem

Do you want to use your printer on the road? Then you'll also need an optional battery for the printer. We offer state-of-the-art solutions at a low price.

A charge state display provides you with the exact information on the still available "printing reserves".
